Total Estimated at 625,000 Votes—

Weather and Lack of Political Fights Combined Bring Light Vote Prediction

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A listless Missouri primary campaign wound up today with last minute efforts to get out the vote for tomorrow's election.

Hot weather and a scarcity of real old-fashioned political fights combined to lead the forecasters to predict an exceptionally light vote.

Will Davis, chief clerk in the secretary of state's office, estimated the total would be much over 625,000, which would be less than a fourth of the eligible voters. That would be the lowest since 1924, when 633,000 voted in the primary.

A forecast of showers and cooler for tomorrow held out some hope that the total might go a little higher than expected. But sharp local contests were hard to find and on the state level most of the races were just as good as decided before the polls opened.

Topping the Democratic ticket, U.S. Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of St. Louis wins renomination to a second term without opposition. Tom J. Gavin, Kansas City councilman, withdrew at the last minute.

Gavin's name will be on the ballot in most counties but the votes won't count.

For the governorship nomination, Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr. of Jefferson City, is far out in front. His campaign manager predicted that 400,000 Democratic votes are cast. Blair would get 335,000 of them with the rest split between Charles A. Lee of Webster Groves, former state superintendent of schools, and Roy E. Glidewell, Salem lawyer.

The Democrats have a six-man scramble for lieutenant governor but Sen. Edward V. Long of Clarksville was so confident of victory that he cut his campaign tour short in the final weeks.

Secy. of State Walter H. Toberman of St. Louis wins automatic renomination to a third term without opposition on the Democratic ticket.

So does Revenue Director M. E. Morris, seeking to return to his old job as treasurer. Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton of Kennett has only nominal opposition from Jim Hayes of Caruthersville, a political novice.

On the Republican ticket, a heated contest developed for the U. S. senatorial nomination between Albert E. Schoenbeck, St. Louis lawyer associated with former Sen. Forrest C. Donnell, and Herbert Douglas, Neosho lawyer.

Schoenbeck has counted on a big vote in the St. Louis area to offset the edge built up by Douglas outside. Douglas was the unsuccessful GOP candidate for attorney general in 1948.

Two others were in the race but were given no chance of anything but a token vote—William E. Van Taay of University City, a faculty member at Fontbonne College for girls, and William McKinley Thomas of St. Louis, who has never won despite repeated efforts.

The GOP governorship race turned into a battle between Lon Hocker, St. Louis lawyer and insurance executive, and Joseph M. Whealen, a division manager for the Ralston Purina Co. in St. Louis.

Hocker directed most of his campaign barbs at the Democrats. Whealen hit out at factional disputes in his own party.

A third candidate was Winford Sidebotham, Rocky Mount resort operator and barber shop politician.

Three Republican candidates win automatic nomination without opposition — Richard M. Webster of Carthage for Lieutenant Governor, Jesse E. Smith of Springfield for secretary of state, and State Sen. Vincent E. Baker of Kansas City for attorney general.

There's a three-way race for treasurer with F. P. (Ted) Graves of Farmington given the edge outstate and Daniel R. Cross and Joseph M. Badgett, both of St. Louis, competing for the St. Louis area vote.

Eight of Missouri's 11 members of the national House of Representatives with automatic renomination without primary opposition.

And one—veteran Rep. Clarence Cannon, Elsberry Democrat — is just as good as elected to his 18th term. Cannon, chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, had neither primary nor general election opposition.

Half the 34 seats in the state Senate are on the election block this time and all 157 seats in the House.

Two senators—Albert M. Spradling of Cape Girardeau and George A. Spencer of Columbia—have neither primary nor general election opponents. Ten Democratic House members and nine Republicans also are in without a struggle.

Polls open tomorrow at 6 a.m. and close in most of the state at 7 p.m. In some areas voting continues until sunset a few minutes after 7.

Wants Motor Scooter For State Fair Event

Wes Murphy, chairman of "Missouri on Parade" is no horseman, and Jack Faber, executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce, is still bowlegged and sore from riding last year, so they would be very grateful if somebody who has a motor scooter and a small English motorcycle would let them have them from about 7 a.m. until after the parade Saturday, Aug. 18.

Both of these men will have to travel along the line of the parade and need to be able to get from one place to the other as quickly as possible. Anybody who has a motor scooter or small motorcycle they would be willing to let them use please call Jack Faber, Chamber of Commerce office, telephone 895.

Stassen Says Nixon Has 'Weaknesses'

Charges Committee Moved Contrary To Eisenhower View

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said today Vice President Nixon has "evident weaknesses" as a vote-getter among labor, minority and independent groups.

In a news conference carrying forward his campaign to replace Nixon as the vice presidential nominee on the Republican ticket this year, Stassen pinpointed feelings of these three groups as the basis for his repeated statements that Nixon would be a detriment to GOP prospects.

Stassen also charged that the Republican National Committee "moved contrary" to the views of President Eisenhower in an effort which Stassen said it made to sew up second place on the ticket for Nixon. He said the committee now has reversed its position on this score.

And he added the name of one more national convention delegate to the list of those supporting his movement to supplant Nixon with Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

The new name was that of John J. Schroeder of St. Louis. Stassen said Schroeder is a delegate from Missouri's 1st Congressional District.

Stassen said that in deciding to oppose Nixon he had in mind these two main points:

1. "A strong effort should be initiated to overcome the evident weaknesses of the vice-president, with labor, with minorities and with the independents."

2. A "close study" should be made of alternative vice presidential candidates, particularly of such men as Herter and Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington, "and the matter should be kept open."

Stassen said that Eisenhower in his Feb. 29 press conference announcing his decision to run again, gave support to the idea of an open national convention for vice-president.

In that meeting with newsmen, Eisenhower spoke of having "unbounded" admiration and respect for Nixon. But he declined to say whether he would want Nixon as his running mate, saying he would first have to see who was nominated for the presidency by the GOP convention.

Stassen maintains this move enhances the popularity of the GOP ticket, but Rep. Judd (R-Minn.) declared that Eisenhower's "chances are being damaged by Nixon but by Stassen."

Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.) said during an NBC television interview he thinks it "very speculative" that the renomination of Nixon would cost the GOP votes, as Stassen contends. Case said he does not think Stassen's effort "means anything troublesome at all to the party."

British Send Big Aircraft Carrier Into Mediterranean

TWO CRITICALLY INJURED—Saturday night two boys riding in a 1956 Ford sedan above were critically injured when the car crashed into an embankment at the junction of Pettis County Highways H and D.

Another Move To Counter Canal Seizure

LONDON (AP)—The 22,000-ton aircraft carrier Bulwark sailed for the Mediterranean today to bolster British forces in any showdown with Egypt over nationalization of the Suez Canal.

Families and sweethearts waved and shouted farewells as the 29-million-dollar carrier, completed only two years ago, left the giant Portsmouth naval base.

The Bulwark's departure was another of the military measures being taken by Prime Minister Eden to counter Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's seizure of the canal.

Eden has already called up a limited number of reservists and halted the return of some soldiers from overseas bases.

Yesterday a crack brigade of some 1,200 paratroopers sailed with full battle equipment for the area.

The British preparations had Egypt looking to its defenses. Nasser's government announced it has called a "limited number" of reservists back into uniform.

Britain still awaited Nasser's answer to her invitation to a 24-nation conference here Aug. 16 to discuss placing the great waterway under international control.

Six nations reportedly have accepted the invitation — Australia, Portugal, Pakistan, Ceylon, Italy and Turkey.

Nasser was understood to be having second thoughts about his reported initial intention to reject the invitation outright. Some diplomatic sources here speculated he would attend the conference if it were held elsewhere than in London and if it were enlarged to include more countries which support his action.

Rome was one site suggested for the parley. A top Italian Foreign Ministry official said Prime Minister Antonio Segni had approved this "possibility" in a conference with Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino.

Nasser continued diplomatic discussions in search of backing. He conferred for an hour yesterday with Soviet Ambassador E. D. Kisseliev, whose government also has been invited to the London conference. It was their third meeting since Britain issued the invitations last week following the conference of British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and U. S. Secretary of State Dulles.

Russia's attitude toward the conference was expected to have a strong bearing on Egypt's decision. The Soviets have upheld Egypt's right to nationalize the Suez company, but they have voiced hope for a negotiated settlement of the dispute.

The police asked if an ambulance was wanted, and from the conversation about a one-car accident, they understood no ambulance was needed. The State Patrol and newspaper was notified and it was not until after a newspaper reporter arrived on the scene an ambulance was called causing considerable delay in getting the boys to the hospital.

Trooper R. E. Stockdell was investigating another accident in Cooper County east of Ottaville when he received the call and he arrived a short time before the ambulance and called for a wrecker. Persons at the scene of the accident kept the two boys as calm as possible until the ambulance arrived, staying away from them and not trying to question them. Doctors at the hospital stated the delay in getting them to the hospital (Please turn to page 2, column 3)

Grandchild of Two Missouri Political Figures Is Killed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The grandchild of two Missouri political figures died last night as the result of a freak home accident.

He was Richard R. Nacy III, grandson of Richard R. Nacy of Jefferson City and James M. Pendegast, Kansas City political leader. The youngster, 17 months, was believed to have been electrocuted.

Nacy, president of the Central Missouri Trust Co., is a former state legislator and prominent Democratic party member.

The child was found lying beside a telephone plug in the home of his parents. Hospital authorities said apparently he had suffered an electrical shock. Efforts to revive him failed.

Funeral services are scheduled today.

Prisoners Use Soap To Escape County Jail

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—Eleven prisoners soaped their bodies to squeeze through a ventilator shaft to freedom from the Orange County Jail, but seven of them weren't slippery enough to avoid early recapture.

The 11, after stripping and applying soap, eased through an opening only 10 by 16 inches yesterday, officers reported.

Sheriff's Capt. C. L. Gathright said the men, prisoners on the ground floor, climbed to the roof of the 4-story building via the ventilator shaft, then used a rope made from strips of mattress covers to descend to the ground.

They had taken bundles of clothing with them, Gathright said, which they put on before leaving the roof.

Four were retaken when they wrecked a stolen car while fleeing in nearby Compton. Two others were arrested in a stolen car in Garden Grove and a seventh was caught in Corona when he showed up at the home of relatives, officers said.

Freak Wreck Hurts Woman, Injures Man

They Discover Car Accident of Another Then Go On to Own

A Negro woman was burned and her husband slightly injured in a freak accident in Warsaw about 9:30 Saturday night. The accident occurred at Jackson Street (Highway 35) and northbound Highway 65 and involved two cars, one of which burst into flames.

Beatrice Burks, 49, Kansas City, suffered first and second degree burns on her left arm, from the hand up to her shoulder, and along her left jaw and on the side of her face.

Burks said he and his wife had been at Duncan's Point on the Lake of the Ozarks in Camden County fishing and had started back to their home in Kansas City. He said as he was driving along Camden County Highway FF a car had stopped them and asked if he could follow them out to the highway.

"As we drove along for about 20 minutes, my wife said, 'I believe that man is lost again or he might have car trouble. His lights are not behind us!' I turned around and drove about 15 minutes and came upon the car with a farmer standing beside it. The man had missed a turn and crashed into a tree and was lying on the seat. We then left and got to a farm house where they had a telephone and they said they would get help, so we drove on. I thought the man was dead," Burks said.

He then said, "I was driving onto the highway and was driving through that town (Warsaw). I had stopped and started up, my car in second gear and crossed the street, when bang, something had happened and the car was on fire all over."

Burks and his wife were brought to Sedalia in the Reser ambulance and were accompanied by the Rev. W. H. Hall, pastor of the Warsaw Methodist Church, whose wife is in Bothwell Hospital.

"That minister was certainly fine to us and he was awful nice," Mrs. Burks said.

At the hospital later in the night Sheriff Bob White and Trooper Glen Means of the State Highway Patrol, who went to the scene of the first accident, reported the man who Burks thought was dead was only intoxicated. It being in Camden County, authorities there were notified.

Trooper Means explained the accident at Warsaw occurred when a car driven by Ira Upton, of Warsaw, and Burks' car collided. He explained there was no gas cap on the Burks car and when the cars collided, gasoline was thrown out of the tank and over and inside the vehicle, whose windows were down, (Please turn to page 2 column 6)

No Civil Rights Move Seen—Harriman Tells Democrats To Write Dynamic Platform

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman of New York called on Democrats today to write a "dynamic, fighting . . . platform in the Roosevelt-Truman tradition."

Lloyd Benefield, director of Harriman's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, denied in a statement that the governor's forces will attempt to organize any "Harriman bloc" within the national convention Platform Committee which organized formally today.

But Benefield quoted Harriman as being "confident the vast majority of Democrats will insist on a platform which follows the forward-looking philosophy and objectives which guided Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman."

This statement apparently signalled the Harriman camp's decision not to take the leadership in a fight for a strong civil rights plank. There had been speculation Harriman might make such a move to advance his candidacy for the nomination, even at the risk of a convention split and possible Southern walkout.

Through Benefield, Harriman again condemned the sort of "moderation" being advocated by Adlai E. Stevenson, the party's 1952 presidential nominee and leading candidate for this year's nomination.

Asserting that the American people "will be greatly disappointed if we water down the principles which have always brought our party success in the past," Benefield said in a statement cleared with Harriman:

"We feel sure this national convention of leading Democrats from all states and territories will emphatically reject any fence-riding program of 'moderation.' Looking backward is the favorite pastime of Republicans, not Democrats."

Harriman's platform views were made known as Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas emerged in the political maneuvering here as a key figure in the Stevenson-Harriman contest to be settled in the party convention opening here next Monday.

Backers of Stevenson apparently believe Johnson, the Senate's majority leader, could make it possible for their man to gain the nomination on the first convention ballot.

By the same token, Harriman's supporters are promoting Johnson as a possible serious candidate himself—one who might hold out long enough to bring about a convention deadlock.

Representative Dies Engine Catches Fire But Airliner Lands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Carl Hinshaw of California died last night, at the age of 62, of pneumonia with heart complications.

A Republican from Pasadena, Hinshaw had been a member of the House since 1939, having been elected to nine consecutive terms.

He died at the nearby Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital, to which he had been admitted July 27, the day Congress adjourned. He was the seventh member to die during the two years of the 84th Congress.

Floods Hit Eastern Area After Storms

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Flood waters from West Virginia and southwestern Pennsylvania surged down the Monongahela River today in the wake of relentless weekend storms.

Unofficial damage estimates ranged upwards from two million dollars.

At least nine deaths were associated with the storms. Three persons were missing and feared drowned in a car that toppled into a creek which had undermined the road on which the car was travelling. Other deaths were in auto accidents during the storms.

The federal-state flood forecast service predicted a Pittsburgh crest of 26 feet, a foot above the theoretical flood stage, tonight at the point where the Ohio River forms. But upstream communities along the Monongahela already were reporting levels five feet or more above capacity, with more water coming.

Scores of communities were cleaning up after debris from smaller streams that flash-flooded streets in residence and business districts up to depths of eight feet.

Most of the major damage appeared to be in these headwaters communities nestled in valleys through which the feeder streams run toward the rivers.

But the powerful river waters ripped loose a fleet of 23 anchored barges in the Pittsburgh area, slamming some against bridge piers and causing other damage. A main bridge into the city was closed for a time for inspection.

A derrick and several barges sank in the river, and navigation was halted entirely because of these obstacles and the high water.

In Canonsburg, 25 miles southwest of Pittsburgh, more than 50 families were evacuated during the night. Patrolman Andy Gray-tok said Chartiers Creek reached the highest level he could recall in 50 years. The nearby town of Houston reported $50,000 damage in flooded homes and business houses.

At Carnegie, 10 miles west of Pittsburgh, the Red Cross set up an emergency shelter for families evacuated because of high water.

Near Monessen, 25 miles south of Pittsburgh, searchers were hunting along the banks of Hollow Creek for clues to the whereabouts of Mr. and Mrs. James Pascarella Jr., and their infant son James III. They had telephoned relatives last night they were leaving their home, but did not arrive as expected.

Slips Off Innertube; Dies at Hospital

PEVELY, Mo. (AP)—Etie Parker-son, 7-year-old St. Louis girl, slipped off an innertube in four feet of water yesterday at Cedar Lake, six miles southeast of Pevely.

The girl, who lived with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Krissinger, told her uncle when carried from the water: "I don't feel good."

She then lapsed into unconsciousness. The Herculaneum volunteer fire department used an inhalator in attempting to revive her while rushing her to Alexian Brothers Hospital in St. Louis. Efforts to revive her there also failed.

Show of Power?

Partly cloudy and continued hot tonight and Tuesday; scattered thundershowers tonight and Tuesday afternoon; low tonight near 70; high Tuesday mid-90s.

The temperature at 7 a.m., was 77; 89 at 1 p.m., and 91 at 2 p.m. Low Sunday night 71. High Sunday 101 between 2 and 3 p.m.

The weatherman must be in a bad mood, or maybe he just wants to show that he's a man to be reckoned with.

The temperature one year ago today, high 96, low 70, with 1.07 inch of rain; two years ago, high 92, low 68 with 1.94 inches of rain; three years ago, high 92, low 70.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks 54.4 steady.

Red Sox Beat Monarchs In League Game

A's Play Monarchs At Liberty Park On Tuesday Night, 8:15

The Kansas City Monarchs bowed to the Memphis Red Sox Sunday night in a game played on the Liberty Park ball diamond. The Red Sox made it a one-sided affair of 21 to 5. This game was a regular Negro League game.

Robinson, a 19-year-old left-hander, on the mound for the Red Sox was just a little too tough for the Missourians as he had the Kansas City batters handcuffed up to the sixth inning when he eased up some. He allowed only seven hits in giving up five runs, and struck out nine.

Marotz, Brown and Taylor all had a turn on the Monarch mound and were hit rather hard.

Washington, Memphis third baseman, and Elliott, Monarch third baseman, both hit circuit drives.

The Monarchs had their day in Omaha on Saturday when they defeated Memphis 6 to 1.

There were two scouts in the stands Saturday night watching the work of Robinson.

Score of the game:
Memphis ..... 002 281 044—21 19 0
Monarchs ..... 000 002 300—5 7 6

Memphis scored their eight runs in the fifth on a single, two doubles, a home run, three walks and an error.

The Sedalia Athletics have been scheduled against the Monarchs on the local diamond Tuesday night. Game time will be 8:15 p.m.

Although the game has been scheduled for some time many of the fans expressed a desire to see these two teams meet. Many times in years gone by the K.C. Monarchs and a Sedalia semi-pro team was the top event on a season schedule for a Sedalia club.

Burglars Drill Way Into California Store

ALAMEDA, Calif. (U)—Burglars drilled their way from one store into another and got $700 in cash and $1,400 in checks.

They bored 38 holes in a wall of a grocery store, kicked in the section, knocked off the lock of a safe and took $300.

Next they bored through a wall into a meat market, but took nothing.

Then they bored through a third wall into a drugstore and took $400 in cash and $1,400 in checks from another safe.

Young Girl Drowns In DeSoto Farm Pool

DESOTO, Mo. (U)—Leslie Lee Withrow, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Withrow Jr., of Moline Acres in St. Louis County, drowned on an outing yesterday at Sidlik farm pool, near DeSoto.

Her parents said the girl strayed away from the shallow area into deep water. She was found in six feet of water. The Withrows said the child had been wearing a life jacket but removed it a few minutes before the accident.

Grand Jury May Hear Wortman Testimony

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (U)—A federal grand jury meeting tomorrow to investigate the activities of Frank (Buster) Wortman may hear testimony from Orville E. Hodge, ousted Illinois state auditor.

Edward G. Maag, assistant U. S. attorney, said Saturday night that Hodge may be subpoenaed to appear before the jury looking into Wortman's operations on the east side.

Maag refused, however, to say definitely if Hodge would be among the more than 30 witnesses scheduled to appear.

Two Are Hurt

pial did not have any effect on their conditions in this case.

It appeared as if the boys were headed north on Highway H and were driving at a fast rate of speed on the blacktop road. When they saw they were coming to a "dead end" of Highway H which intersects with Highway D, the brakes were applied. The car skidded about 171 feet from the start of the marks to where the car stopped.

The driver of the car was not known for sure. Both youths were lying on the ground to the east of the car. It appeared as if young Reith may have been riding on the passenger side and was thrown through the windshield and rolled off the hood of the car to the ground, while Walker fell to the right and rolled out of the open door on the right side beside the car.

The automobile belonged to Payne and Dolan Inc., with whom the Reith boy's father is connected. Reith was driving the car when it left Marshall or Sedalia. Larry Daniel, also of Marshall, was with the two and left them at Garst's Drive-in about 9:30, he reported.

The boys were to pick him up later, and when they failed to return, he called an aunt in Marshall who came for him.

When the father of Reith arrived he reported the Daniel boy as having been with the two when they left Marshall, and before he arrived here was unable to locate him in Marshall. Trooper Stockdell, Deputy Sheriff George Brown, the newspaper reporter and three Sedalia youths were returning to the scene of the accident to search the area to see if he could have been thrown out of the car and wandering off into a field. Just before they arrived at the scene, Trooper Stockdell was notified about 4 a.m. the boy had returned to Marshall.

The car was towed to the Parks Cities Service Station, at Linnet and Broadway.

Epworth Methodist Church, officiating.

Mrs. F. O. Withers and Mrs. Ed Ringen sang "Under His Wings" and "Whispering Hope."

Ritualistic rites of the Warsaw Lodge 653 A. F., and A. M. were conducted at graveside in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Striped College Club Has Revue of Dresses

The Striped College Homemakers Extension Club met July 25 for an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Park Green with Mrs. T. O. Sisson and Mrs. Martin Schupp assisting. A contributive dinner was enjoyed by 26 members, three visitors, Mrs. Curtis Howard, Miss Lois Green and Mrs. Borchers, three 4-H girls, Carolee Shirley, Carolina Staley and Virginia Leiter, and ten children.

Mrs. Oliver Richwine read Mrs. Zimmerman's letter. Mrs. Glen Cox reported that Mrs. Ellis Garrett, Mrs. John Linneville, Mrs. Martin Schupp and Mrs. Cox met in the school basement and made 40 diapers for Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Ted Dabner gave a report on open house held at her home for the 4-H woodwork class. There were approximately 200 attending. She also gave a report on the 4-H Achievement Day at Smith-Cotton High School.

Mrs. Charles Rages gave a report on home management meeting she had attended. Mrs. Ernest Biggs reported on the clothing project.

The main feature of the afternoon program was a style show of the dresses the ladies had made. The 4-H girls judged the dresses before the meeting. Those modeling were Mrs. Fred Staley, Mrs. Ellis Garrett, Mrs. Cecil Monsees, Mrs. Wilbur Garrett and Mrs. G. Ernest Stevens. Mrs. S. G. Monsees was unable to attend but sent her dress to be judged.

There will be no August meeting. The September meeting will be with Mrs. Joe Edwards.

Sedalia Woman Gets 'Jumpmaster' Award

Mrs. James W. Woodard, 242 West Ave., Sedalia, Missouri, has been awarded a "Jumpmaster" certificate by Marine Studios, Florida's renowned oceanarium at Marineland, Fla. Specially selected visitors from all parts of the country earn this title at Marineland by feeding the famous jumping porpoises by hand.

Mrs. Woodard received the award after successfully coaxing three of the large aquatic mammals to leap completely out of the water to take fish from her fingers.

Following the porpoise feeding, Mrs. Woodard stayed to witness the entire program, during which a diver enters the two oceanarium tanks to feed the thousands of living marine specimens.

Parking On The Parking Lots

It could be the crazy hot weather and wilting temperatures which make tempers short and love lazy these August days.

Anyway, those matter of fact conversationalists who like to sit and talk in an automobile are finding it just as cool in town and less expensive on the gasoline budget than to drive out in the country to park.

So a quaint new custom is developing in Sedalia — the nighttime use of small parking lots around churches, schools and elsewhere as a substitute for lovers' lanes in the country.

Some of these parking lots are in proximity to homes where families after retiring find it annoying to hear the chattering conversation which takes place in parked automobiles around midnight; or, after they are asleep, suffer the terrifying experience of being awakened by the churning of gravel beneath spinning tires.

There used to be a time when intimate conversation was of the almost inaudible kind — whispering sweet nothings into an ear; but times have changed with respect to this delicate maneuver, foo. Now anyone within a stone's throw can "case" the conversational theme without half listening, according to those who have tuned in on Cupid's wave length recently.

So it looks like the Sedalia police will have another chore on their nightly rounds — checking the parking lots to encourage the incautious night owls to leave and be properly tucked in at home instead of on a parking lot.

Then the patrolman's whispered voice into a portable radio mike may report by silent air ways, like the raucous Town Crier of yesteryear but with more moderation, that "all is well" in Sedalia at the midnight hour.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Kremlin Doesn't Want Suez War

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Most encouraging news on the otherwise disturbing Suez Canal front is confidential advice from American diplomats in Moscow that the Russians don't want an explosion in the Near East.

U.S. diplomats report that Communist leader Nikita Khrushchev was speaking the truth when he publicly appealed to the West not to use force in the Suez crisis.

Although the Russians have literally deluged Egypt with arms and more are reportedly on the way, diplomatic sources say the Kremlin has no intention of going to the aid of Egypt in case of war. Thus, if war broke, Russia would be exposed as a false friend.

Note—The French government has promised Britain 100,000 troops in any war against Egypt. They believe the time has come to crush Nasser before he rallies the whole Arab world against the West.

Ike, the Diplomat

Newspaper readers who scanned the cold type of the President's press conference on Nixon and Stassen would have a hard time deciding whom Ike was for. His words were chosen with masterful diplomacy. Only the late President Franklin Roosevelt, among recent presidents, has been so adroit in dancing on eggs at a press conference.

Newsmen who listened were not much more enlightened. But the warmth of the President's words, when he spoke of Harold Stassen's fine work on disarmament, was such that Stassen seemed to get slightly the better of the deal. There was also the fact that Ike described Nixon as "acceptable" but did not give an enthusiastic "I want him."

Behind the press conference, however, were other events which spoke louder than words. One was the fact that Ike had summoned Chairman Len Hall one day earlier and told him to pipe down on his strong "We want Dick" statements. He advised Hall that his statements made it look as if the San Francisco convention was rigged to stifle all opposition.

It was right after this talk that Hall issued his "open convention" statement.

The President has also made it clear to his closest intimates that he wants to be completely free to take any vice-presidential candidate, Nixon, whom he likes, he recognizes to be a liability. He also recognizes that voters will be voting for the Vice President as the potential President. At the same time, however, Eisenhower doesn't want to antagonize the right wing of the Republican party whose darling Nixon is. That's why Ike is tightrope walking, also why if Stassen can build up enough support for another candidate, Ike will probably take him.

Note—So far the vice-presidential poll conducted on behalf of Stassen by professional

Guest Editorial—

CAPE GIRARDEAU MISSOURIAN: August is at hand. Scientists inform us that Dog Days are due to the "Bermuda High"—a pressure system of air that is warmed over the equator during the winter and moves north and west as the summer advances. Moving northward, the air picks up moisture, and the heat of August plus the moisture result in sultry and hot days.

The term "Dog Days" comes from Sirius, the Dog Star, the brightest star in the heavens. Oddly enough, it is visible only during the winter; Sirius rises and sets in the daytime during the summer.

August is not a popular month but in Nature's master plan it is a pivotal period. Twice in each turning year, natural forces seem to pause before the two major climatic changes. In February, and again in the eighth month, there comes a period of brooding quietness and waiting expectancy. But beneath the apparent quietness and cessation of the basic rhythms that regulate the flowering world, great forces are following the pattern laid down in ancient aeons.

Summer may look and act tired; the green of the leaves is faded and the grasses on sun-drenched hillsides have changed green stems to tan and amber. But the corn is pushing toward maturity. Stand beside a cornfield on a hot, quiet, star-sequined night and you can hear the corn grow. Stand on a hillside on a peaceful August evening and in the quietness of the night you can feel a lushness and sense of maturity of year.

Behind the lassitude and brooding, the heat and high humidity, profound and basic transformations are taking place. Already as the month nears its end, certain birds are gathering in flocks; already the season's life processes are finished for many plants. To him who is sensitive to Nature's ordered program, August is an integral part of the turning year.

Kansas Democrats Fight

Harry Woodring, the nice little governor of Kansas who stormed the ramparts of Washington in Roosevelt days and ended up as Secretary of War, is trying for a comeback in Kansas tomorrow.

There have been only four Democratic governors of rock-ribbed Republican Kansas this century, and Harry Woodring was one of them. He was elected in 1930 when the drought, a split among Kansas Republicans, plus the plight of the farmers, pushed him into the state house in Topeka.

Today, drought, depressed farm prices, and another split between Republicans have created a similar situation; so Harry has hopped belatedly into the breach to make the most of it. In doing so, he is trying to elbow out George Docking, another Kansas Democrat, who got into the race considerably ahead.

Woodring has some interesting campaign slogans—one of them reminiscent of Hoover's "A Chicken in Every Pot" and "Two Cars in Every Garage." His latest is: "A Pond for Every Kansas Farm and a Lake for Every Kansas County."

Harry is also spending quite a bit of dough for a usually poverty-stricken Democrat, much of it reportedly coming from cattlemen Ken Anderson of Emporia and Leigh Warner of Cimarron.

Most interesting part of the Woodring campaign, however, is the way he has suddenly embraced Roosevelt.

Real truth is that Woodring had a lot of trouble inside the Roosevelt administration. At the time when FDR was telling his cabinet that the U.S.A. had to be prepared, Woodring was dragging his heels. FDR was certain that sooner or later the dictators would attack the United States; so he increased the military budget as much as Congress would permit.

But Woodring, in charge of the Army, hung back. He couldn't believe there would ever be an attack. Roosevelt finally worked through the Assistant Secretary of War, alert Louey Johnson, to get more airplanes; and finally, after Woodring got embroiled in a personal incident from which "mystery man" Henry Grunewald rescued him, FDR asked for his resignation.

Today, believe it or not, however, Woodring's campaign literature features pictures of himself in chummy position with FDR, the man against whom he was so critical after he was eased out of the cabinet.

Immortal Pinocchio

A children's classic, Pinocchio, the wooden puppet whose fibs made his nose grow and grow, has recently had a monument erected in his honor in the Tuscan village of Colodi, the pen name under which the author, Carlo Lorenzini, wrote.

Young and old Pinocchio fans from all over the world sent money to this $100,000 memorial in the little village of 1500 people. Two sculptors won in a national contest, Emilio Greco and Venturio Venturi, but it seems mischievous Pinocchio was still at work even after the judge's decision because some of the native Colodians did not approve of Greco's design. A compromise was reached and the wooden puppet, made famous in the United States by Walt Disney, now towers among the oaks and cypress trees. The toylike houses of Colodi, built on the hillsides, provide a proper background for the legendary little rascal.

Towers of Gabble

Among the assorted facts turned up about the recent session of Congress are these:

Through June 30, the members of the Senate talked a total of 635 hours and 56 minutes. By contrast, House members were spouting only 315 hours and 47 minutes.

Keep these figures handy. When somebody asks you what it means to call the Senate the "greatest deliberative body in the world," you will be able to tell them.

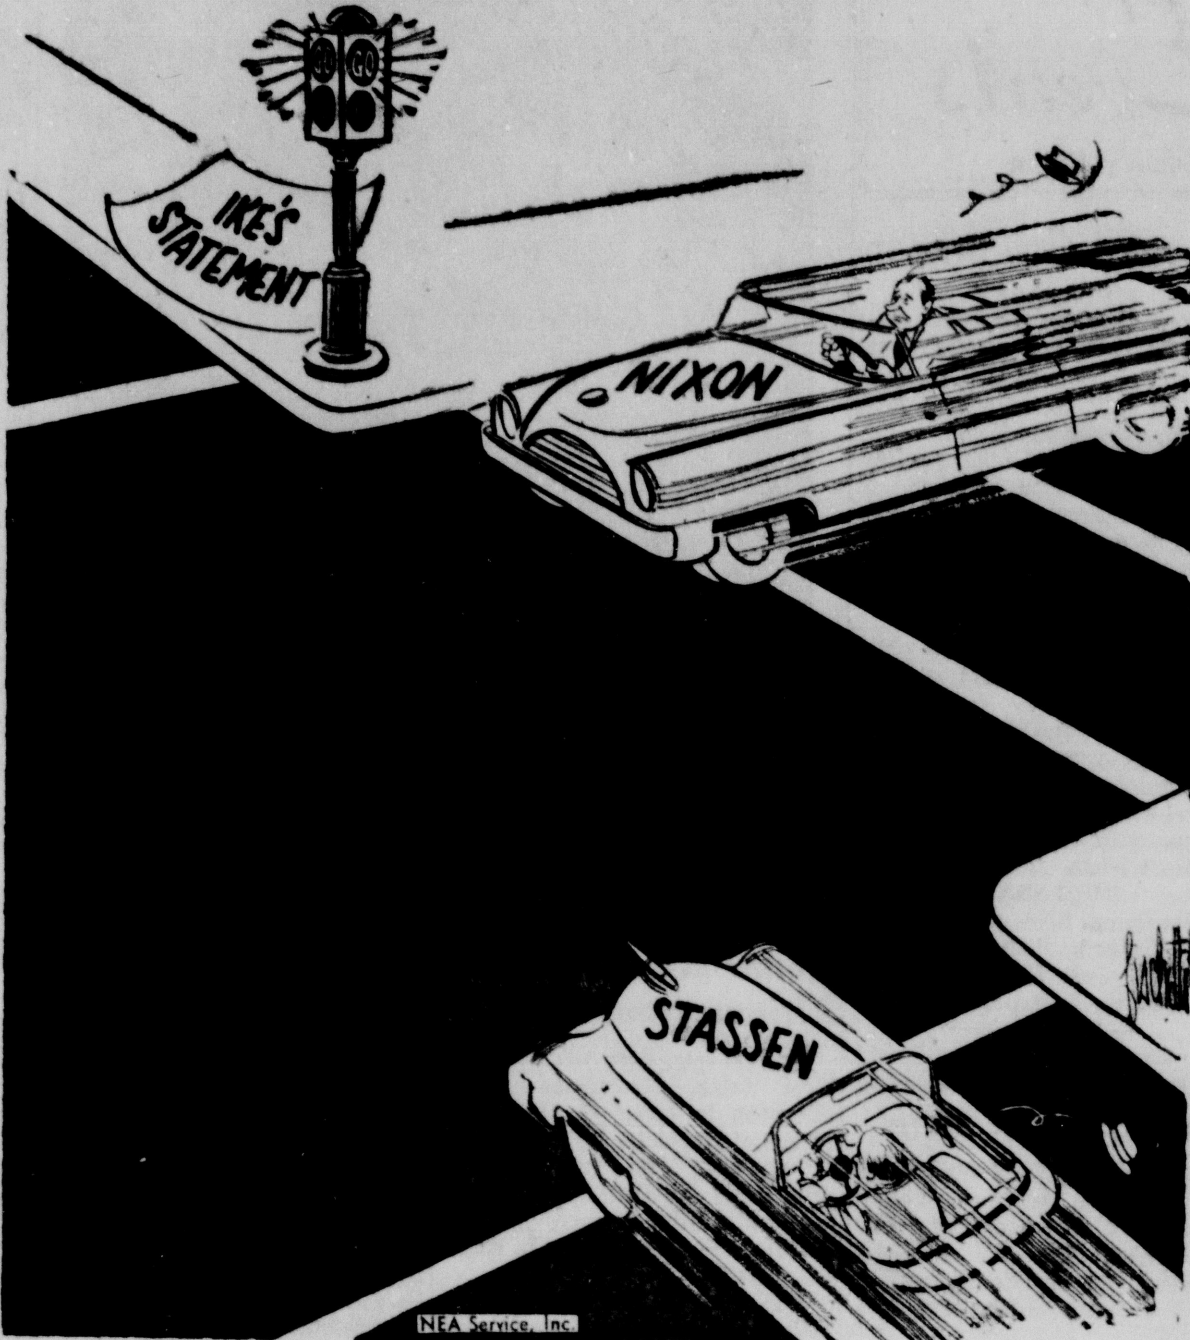

As for that House bunch, they look like a pretty close-mouthed outfit by comparison. Maybe that's why so many congressmen like to move up to the Senate. They like to get in on that verbal free-wheeling.

Fighting giraffes swing their long necks like baseball bats in an effort to knock each other off balance.

Ike Lately Offers Two Reasons to Run

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has made it clear — but only lately — that he has a double reason for seeking re-election: the good of the country and the good of the Republican party.

Otherwise, he has said very little specifically about why he's running again.

Search the records of his news conferences and public statements since his heart attack and you find he never has said — in one-two-three order — "here are my reasons for wanting a second term."

On Feb. 29, when he first said he'd try again, he was reported to have been overheard telling a friend: "I had to say yes because they told me they didn't have any time to build up another candidate."

He has never denied saying it. Asked directly at his May 4 news conference if it was true, he said:

"I have heard so many stories about my candidacy I couldn't possibly remember whether I ever said any such thing. And if I did, I could have said it facetiously."

Not long afterward Robert J. Donovan's book — "Eisenhower: The Inside Story" — was published. For that book, men around Eisenhower gave Donovan, a Washington reporter, inside information never published before.

Donovan said these three "considerations" were in Eisenhower's mind before deciding on a second term: urgencies by top Republicans that he alone in the party could win the election; his own desire for more time to rebuild the party; and the part he could play in preserving peace.

Donovan wrote there is "good authority" for saying the first two had little effect on him. But at his Aug. 1 news conference — when Eisenhower was told his Gettysburg neighbors hoped he wouldn't run because they feared he couldn't last another term — he said:

"I don't think it is too important to the individual how the end comes, and certainly he can't dictate the time."

"What we are talking about here is the importance to the country, and it happens that at this moment the Republican party thinks I am still important to them and the country."

"And since I believe so much in the Republican party, and I believe that it needed rebuilding badly, an effort which I have been making, as you well know, I said I would continue to try."

Any other explanation Eisenhower has given for wanting to stay in the White House is pretty generalized. For instance, this explanation in his Feb. 29 television broadcast to the nation announcing he'd run:

"I am dedicated to a program that rigidly respects the concepts of political and economic freedom on which this nation was founded, that holds there must be equal justice and equality of opportunity for individuals, that adapts governmental methods to changing industrial, economic and social conditions, and that has, as its never changing purpose, the welfare, prosperity and above all the security of 166 million Americans."

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly says he has shelved vacation plans for this year. "I'll think about a vacation next January," he said.

Donnelly will complete his second term as governor of Missouri next January 12. In the meantime, the governor said he planned on spending more weekends at his home in Lebanon.

The governor explained that he wants to supervise some remodeling work at his two-story home in Lebanon. He said Mrs. Donnelly wants to change their home to include complete living quarters on the first floor to eliminate stair climbing.

The Missouri highway patrol is expected to announce in about two weeks the names of successful applicants for six vacancies on the patrol.

Thirty-five candidates for the six positions on the patrol were interviewed at patrol headquarters in Jefferson City last week. Those interviewed had already passed rigid physical and mental tests, according to Capt. K. K. Johnson, director of the patrol's service division.

Johnson said the vacancies on the patrol are due to "routine turnover." He said the small "rookie" class of troopers would be trained at Troop F headquarters in Jefferson City instead of at the state fairgrounds in Sedalia as in the past.

For an Englishman, an auto shock absorber is a damper.

Outcome of Conventions Still Is Political Enigma

By JOSEPH A. DEAR

Of Our Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON—The presidential nominating conventions are almost upon us and their outcome is just about as predictable as anything can be in an uncertain world.

Harold Stassen and Estes Kefauver are chiefly responsible. They made July an interesting political month at the expense of August.

Stassen set out to bump Vice-President Nixon from the Republican ticket. As a result, Nixon seems to have more surface strength than ever before. And the President said nothing at his weekly news conference, his first since the big bellyache, that diminished Nixon.

Senator Kefauver proved himself a realist after all. He knew he didn't have a chance for the Democratic nomination and, against the advice of his principal lieutenants, he took himself out of the race.

More important, he threw his support to Adlai Stevenson. That should clinch it. Governor Harriman of New York will have a tough time, Harry Truman and fat checkbook notwithstanding. In fact, Mr. Truman might become a more neutral neutral now.

It was widely believed that the ex-President would throw his support to Harriman if developments at the convention permitted. Mr. Truman might do that anyhow, but it is less likely now that there will be a crucial moment when his intervention would be decisive.

It's also possible that Stassen, who is considered a troublesome utility in this cynical town, will finally get his anti-Nixon campaign off the ground. But even if he doesn't, the future may show that he is just as realistic as Kefauver.

Because of the health issue, Nixon is the weak spot in the Republican campaign. Stassen, still a member of the Ike team, can not in good taste say why it is that the Vice-President is the weak spot. But the simple truth is that there is doubt that Ike will live through a second term. This is a doubt the Democrats will encourage.

In the face of this doubt, the Republican ticket might be strengthened if a solid and respected citizen was the Vice-presidential candidate. Then citizens could vote for Ike without misgivings. That is Stassen's real argument.

Note that the argument does not involve Mr. Nixon's qualifications for high office. These are beside the point, according to Stassen's lights. Nixon's presence on the ticket would invite consideration of an unpleasant possibility, and to the extent that it did, the ticket would be weakened.

It's most unlikely that this argument would make any impression on the President if it were made before him, and not even Stassen would have nerve enough for that. First, the psychology of the approach is wrong. Ike doesn't sit in the White House brooding about his health. His doctors have told him he's well, and he thinks he is. At his press conference this week, he was asked if he was confident in his own mind of his ability to serve another term. He said yes, and he sounded like he meant it. He admitted he felt better a year ago, but he clearly expects to feel better yet as his recovery progresses.

Also, Ike seems to have faith in Mr. Nixon. And he seems to think that the country does too. If that's the way it is, Nixon should be safe. Statistics, such as Stassen has, rarely upset belief.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Driving along a wide super-highway we have to choose the lane which appears to offer the best opportunity for reaching our destination. We look as far ahead as we can see and plan our driving in such a manner that we shall have to stop as little as possible. We select the lane in which traffic is moving steadily and consistently.

We do not weave from lane to lane because erratic shifting is dangerous for ourselves and for others.

When a driver cuts in and out of traffic we criticize him and "bow down ourselves to let him get on his way."

One mistake in heavy traffic can injure many innocent people who have been abiding by the rules of safety and courtesy. Most people are considerate of others and do not want to create hazards unnecessarily.

America has spent millions of dollars educating people to drive safely. Warning signs at every turn of the road and at every point where accidents could easily happen.

As a general rule, drivers pay attention to those signs. Along the spiritual highways there are warning signs but we do not seem to heed these signs as readily as we should. These danger signals are not painted on metal and imbedded along the highways.

They are carried in our minds and imprinted on our consciences. Do we need an educational program to keep us aware of our moral and spiritual responsibilities? Do we need to be frightened spiritually as we are frightened by accidents on the highways?

Several Things Rule Productivity of Soil

By JOHN FALLOON
MU Extension Soils Specialist

High soil productivity means high yields per acre. This productivity is the result of a combination of things.

The features influencing soil productivity may be divided in two parts:

One is physical characteristics, which include such things as color of the soil, depth, texture, slope, drainage and other things associated with soil formation.

The second is chemical characteristics — the elements in the soil. Fifteen of these elements are essential for plant growth and are known as plant nutrients.

The nutrient status of a soil is referred to as soil fertility. A soil with lots of nutrients is high in fertility. A soil lacking in nutrients is low in fertility.

Fertility is sometimes confused with productivity. A soil may be high in fertility—that is it contains lots of nutrients—and yet it may not produce high yields. A sticky, poorly drained "gumbo" soil is a good illustration. In such a case, the nutrients are in the soil but are not released fast enough by the soil so they can be taken up by the plant in large enough amounts to make a high yield. So a fertile soil is not necessarily a productive soil but a productive soil must be fertile along with other good features.

Soil fertility is influenced by soil treatments which supplement the natural fertility in the soil. The present fertility level of the soil is best measured by soil tests. Putting on fertilizer is not an absolute guarantee of a high yield. The yield still could be limited by something else. However, under normal conditions, fertility is the factor most likely to limit yield.

Along with fertility additions, a good soil management program must take the physical features of the soil into consideration. First of all is the choice of crops best adapted to the features as they exist now. Then next is the question of whether or not the features as they now exist can be modified.

The practical possibilities of modifying the undesirable physical features of a soil are often limited. However, there are many possibilities. Organic residues can be worked into the soil. Poorly drained land can be greatly improved by properly constructed drainage ditches and sometimes tiling. Long slopes can be protected from erosion by terracing.

Really the two types of features—physical and chemical—can not be clearly separated. They are inter-related and a good soil management program must consider all the features.

Likewise, the soil management program can not successfully stand alone. Other features of the farm business are involved. It is not just a matter of growing any crop but rather, crops to supply the feed needs. Kinds and number of livestock may need to be adjusted to fit the probable feed supplies. This inter-relationship goes on and on and includes all the farm so it will contribute the most to good family living. In Missouri, this is called Balanced Farming.

Will Conduct Recognition Dinner Meet

One of the special events of the Farm and Home Planning Association is the Recognition Dinner which will be held Tuesday evening, Aug. 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church.

In order to give some recognition to the Farm and Home Planning Families for the progress they have made this past year, they will be awarded a Certificate of Progress. The certificates are made possible by the Missouri Bankers Association in cooperation with the Agriculture Extension Service. They will be presented by C. L. Carter, of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co.

J. U. Morris, former county agent of Pettis County, was originally scheduled to be the speaker; however, Morris has a conflict with a previous engagement so C. E. Klinger, farm economist, will speak to the group on "What Makes a Farm Tick?"

The program for the evening is as follows: Merle Vaughan, county agent, will preside. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. with the Rev. E. L. Hobbs, offering the invocation. After dinner a report on the progress of the association will be given by, Estel Hudson, assistant county agent and, immediately following, Carter will present the awards. The guest speaker will then be introduced.

Anyone desiring to attend the dinner is welcome. Tickets may be purchased at the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce or at the County Extension Office until Aug. 10.

The local business firms who helped underwrite the Association have been sent a complimentary ticket and the Farm and Home Planning families have been asked to reply to the County Extension Office the number in their family to attend.

It is important to know in advance the number attending so the dinner may be prepared accordingly.

Big Majority Of Votes Favor Wheat Quotas

Preliminary returns from the referendum held Friday, July 20, in the 3-State wheat producing area show that 87.5 per cent of farmers voting favor marketing quotas for 1957-crop wheat, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced.

Preliminary returns show a total of 261,495 votes counted — about 25 per cent less than last year. Of these, 228,737 (87.5 per cent) favored marketing quotas on 1957-crop wheat and 32,758 (12.5 per cent) were opposed. Although this is a slightly under 2,000,000 acres had entered the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve. Last week's total, which covered the period through July 13, was 4,400,000 acres. Deadline for producers to enter land in the 1956 Acreage Reserve is July 27.

According to the July 20 report from the State ASC offices, 368,296 Acreage Reserve agreements were signed. If the signatory producers comply with requirements of the program, they can earn nearly $165,000,000 on the 8,000,000 acres entered under the program.

Only farms with corn "base acreages" or allotments for wheat, cotton, rice, peanuts, or tobacco are eligible to participate in the Acreage Reserve Program, which is designed primarily to reduce current production of these six basic crops.

In Missouri, the official results are — 6,451 votes in favor; 1,110 votes against which is a total vote of 7,561.

Hogs Records Insure Good Performance

By Bill Pugh, MU Extension Livestock Specialist

Performance records on hogs can serve several useful purposes and are not too hard to keep.

We are all interested in keeping high producing sows, that will farrow a good number of pigs and suckle these pigs well until weaning. These factors are inherited so we need some records to help select replacement gilts from the best producing sows.

First, we need an identification system. Ear notching works well and is an easy job to do. It does need to be done by the time pigs are 48 hours old.

Next, in order to check the suckling ability of the sow and ability of the pigs to do well, we need to weigh the pigs at 21, 35, or 56 days of age. It doesn't make much difference which age you use.

One more step that needs to be done is backfat probing the replacement gilts. This indicates which of the sows are producing the gilts with the least backfat and helps in the selection of meatier gilts for replacement. Probing should be done when gilts weigh 180 to 200 pounds. To be an accurate prediction of how the gilts will reproduce, the gilts should be probed while on a fattening ration of grain and supplement. A good goal is to save only gilts with 1½ inches or less of backfat at 200 pounds.

All your gilts may not measure

Farms Sign Up More Than 8 Million Acres

More than 8,000,000 acres of cropland had been signed up by farmers under the 1956 Acreage Reserve program of the Soil Bank through July 20, according to reports for that date which have been received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture from State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices.

The amount of cropland listed for the Acreage Reserve during the third week for which reports have been available almost doubled the previous week's figure. During the week ending July 6, slightly under 2,000,000 acres had entered the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve. Last week's total, which covered the period through July 13, was 4,400,000 acres. Deadline for producers to enter land in the 1956 Acreage Reserve is July 27.

According to the July 20 report from the State ASC offices, 368,296 Acreage Reserve agreements were signed. If the signatory producers comply with requirements of the program, they can earn nearly $165,000,000 on the 8,000,000 acres entered under the program.

Time Is Near For Seeding Of Alfalfa

By J. Ross Fleetwood
MU Extension Field Crops Specialist

Between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15 is the best time to make alfalfa seedings. Seeding during this period usually means the young crop will get some moisture soon after seeding and there is still time for the plants to make some growth before winter. Seedlings made before Aug. 15 are likely to be damaged by hot, dry weather.

The variety of alfalfa seeded is tremendously important and becoming more so. More and more areas throughout the state are being invaded by bacterial wilt. It's best to use wilt-resistant varieties in areas where this disease is likely to be a problem.

Buffalo and Ranger have been the recommended varieties for these areas in recent years. However, a new variety called Vernal is now in the picture and it seems to be an excellent variety under most conditions in Missouri. It is highly resistant to wilt and will yield as well as Common alfalfa. It produces a fine foliage which makes it excellent for roughage.

Vernal seed is still a little short in supply and the price is somewhat higher than other varieties. However, it's worth the difference. Fertility is another essential point to remember when seeding alfalfa. Fields should be treated according to soil test and a starter fertilizer of a 1-1-1 ratio should be used.

Rate of seeding should be about 15 pounds per acre when alfalfa is seeded alone and 6-8 pounds when seeded with grass. Probably the best seeding method is band seeding but a regular drill or broadcast can be used.

Seed should be inoculated where a successful alfalfa crop has not been grown on the field for several years.

County Extension Agent

Spotted Aphid Here

A rather unwelcome guest was discovered in the County last week with the recognition of the spotted Aphid in Alfalfa here.

These aphids apparently come into the County in 1954 and since that time have spread over much of the southwest. They are yellow and about one half the size of the pea aphid. The adults have two rows of spots down the back but a magnifying glass is generally needed to see those spots.

They secrete a lot of honey dew and the plants on which they work are sticky to the touch. They work only in Alfalfa but feed all summer while the pea aphid works only in the spring.

In the southwest it is often necessary to spray once on every cutting.

Infested fields show a lot of brown leaves and the fields appear to be seriously stricken from the drought. The control spray is parathion which is the same one used this spring.

With severe damage spraying may be a must. You might check with the Extension Office for latest recommendations.

Grasshoppers

Weather during the past week has brought us somewhat closer to hopper damage. With the high temperatures we have been having, much wasteland and grassland vegetation is maturing, and if this continues, there will be more concentrating of hoppers in crops.

Temperatures for the past several days have been high enough to cause some difficulty in getting kills from aldrin and heptachlor. You can expect such trouble any time temperatures range in the upper 90's or above.

To minimize the effects of high temperatures as much as possible, apply the insecticide early in the morning or late in the evening. Hoppers will be feeding most actively at these times of day, and in addition, convection currents from the ground will be at a minimum.

Where it can be used safely, Dieldrin is the most successful hopper insecticide during periods of high temperatures. It is considerably more stable than either aldrin or heptachlor, and consequently, is not so readily affected by the heat. But the very qualities that make it desirable during hot weather also restrict the places where it can be used. Residues from dieldrin are quite long lasting; crops sprayed with it should not be grazed or harvested less than 30 days after spraying.

In the home garden, malathion at six level tablespoons of 25 per cent malathion wettable powder, or two tablespoons of 57 per cent emulsifiable concentrate, is the most practicable control to use. Wait at least 3 days after spraying before using any of the vegetables.

Bagworms

This has been one of the worst years in a long time for bagworm injury. Most ornamental cedars, as well as many other trees and shrubs have been infested. In addition, the infestation in wild cedars has been extremely heavy.

Unfortunately, many people do not inspect their trees closely enough to notice the bagworms until they get nearly full grown. At that stage of development, the worms are much harder to kill than when they are small.

For control, use two tablespoons of 65 per cent toxaphene in a gallon of water. The trees should be thoroughly sprayed.

A good kill can be expected on the worms if they are still feeding. If the bags are attached to the trees, however, it is an indication that the worms have completed their feeding and are pupating. Under such circumstances, you will not kill the worms. They must eat sprayed foliage to be affected.

If a person has ornamentals that have pupating worms present, about the only control would be to hand pick the bags off the trees.

Incidentally, some folks are apparently confused on the life history of this insect. While the worms are feeding, they drag the bag around with them at all times. After completing their feeding, the bags are attached to twigs, and the worm pupates inside. The males emerge from the bags as clear-winged moths. The adult females are wingless, however, and never leave the bag. Eggs for next years brood over-winter inside the bag containing females.

Pays Honors To Woolson In Duluth

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Government officials joined military leaders today in final tribute to Albert Woolson, the Civil War drummer boy who lived to be the last survivor of the Union Army.

The old veteran died in a coma last Thursday after being hospitalized for nine weeks with lung congestion. He was 109.

Heads of patriotic organizations, civic officials and neighbors were gathered in the long funeral procession behind Woolson's family. Secy. of the Army Wilbur Brucker, Sens. Thyne (R - Minn.) and Humphrey (D-Minn.), Rep. Blatnik (D-Minn.) and Minnesota Gov. Orville Freeman.

Selected for the honor of blowing taps for the last of the boys in blue was a young Texas private, 23-year-old Daniel Diaz of Corpus Christi. The slim, bespectacled soldier of Spanish heritage is a member of the 438th Army Band of Corpus Christi. The band has been at Camp McCoy, Wis., during recent weeks.

The private's trumpet is one which he bought six years ago from money he made by distributing circulars and carrying newspapers while in high school.

Fingering the instrument fondly, Diaz said he was confident things would go well with him "for the biggest event I'll probably ever play for as long as I'm alive."

Woolson's body lay in state yesterday at a funeral home here, with hundreds calling to pay their respects before today's three-hour services. He wore his uniform of the Grand Army of the Republic, with his blue GAR cap resting on his clasped hands.

Ed Sullivan Suffers Injuries In Car Wreck

SEYMOUR, Conn. (AP) — Ed Sullivan, TV master of ceremonies and nationally syndicated newspaper columnist, suffered chest bruises and a possible rib fracture in a two-car smashup here today, police reported.

Three other men, including his son-in-law, were injured in the head-on collision. All were taken to Griffin Hospital in nearby Derby. Their conditions were described as fair.

Sullivan, 53, was driving to his home in Southbury. He had flown to Bridgeport from McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, where his weekly Sunday night television show was staged. He picked up the car at Bridgeport.

Riding with him were his son-in-law Robert H. Precht Jr., 26, of Scarsdale, N.Y., and Ralph Cacace, 34, of New Haven, Conn., a private detective employed by Sullivan.

Police said the collision in this Naugatuck Valley town at 1:25 a.m. occurred when a car driven by Joseph Palmucci, 22, of Ansonia, Conn., veered into the left-hand side of Route No. 8, a two-lane highway. Police said both cars were total wrecks.

Palmucci suffered a broken hip, possible jaw fracture and facial injuries.

Precht had a fractured left ankle and scalp and chin lacerations. Cacace suffered chest bruises and a cut lip.

Sullivan's wife Sylvia and their daughter Mrs. Betty Precht sped from Southbury to Derby when informed of the accident. They took a room at the hospital.

route was the neatly-trimmed family cemetery plot, final resting place of the old soldier who spent one day three years ago when his last comrade in arms died and he was left as the last of about 2,650,000 men of the Union Army.

Says Fighting Quits In Laos Provinces

HONG KONG (AP) — Peiping radio said today the government of Laos and the Communist-backed Pathet Lao insurgents have agreed to quit fighting in Laos' northern provinces of Sam Neua and Phongsaly.

The Chinese Communist report quoted a broadcast from Vietnamese, capital of the landlocked Indochinese kingdom.

It said negotiators agreed:

1. Laos will not join any military alliances or permit foreign military bases on its territory.
2. Pathet Lao members can vote in future elections.
3. The royal government will take over administration of the two provinces and Pathet Lao fighting units will be incorporated in the government army.

Heat Starts Fire Alarm in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — It was hot enough here Sunday—104 degrees—to set off a fire alarm. Firemen rushed to the home of Archie Williams, where a fire alarm bell was ringing. They said that heat touched off the bell in a closed room during the family's absence.

Couple Marries After Hoax Keeps 'em Apart

TIVERTON, R.I. (AP) — Benjamin French, 82, and Mrs. Mabel Smith Kibbe, 79, were married yesterday after a hoax had kept them apart 60 years.

The pair were sweethearts in 1894, when her family moved out of town.

French said a jealous woman caused them to stop corresponding. Then the woman sent the girl a clipping reporting the death of a "B. French," and giving her the impression French was dead.

Mable married another man and after her first husband died 15 years later, she remarried. Her French, meanwhile, had left Tiverton and married a New Hampshire schoolteacher, who died in 1935.

French and Mrs. Kibbe were reunited when he returned to Tiverton for a family reunion last May and met his old love again.

Said French: "When you have something true in the beginning, it never fades; it's always there, especially in time or need."

Hearty luncheon salad: tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese (cream-style) and bits of anchovy. Garnish the tops with a sprinkling of paprika and a caper-soiled anchovy. Serve in lettuce cups.

Steel Industry Starts Work Again Today

By GIB STALEY
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The basic steel industry, backbone of America's industrial might, roared back toward full production today under an unprecedented three-year, no-strike contract.

The five-week walkout of 650,000 members of the United Steelworkers was declared officially ended last night when the last major company, Armco Steel Corp., signed a contract.

Three other big firms signed earlier yesterday. They were Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corp., Inland Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

An estimated 25 per cent of the 650,000 strikers were back on the job today. By the end of the week all are expected to be working for the first time since July 1. But it will be 10 days to three weeks—depending on the companies—until full production is achieved.

Men idled in other industries because of the strike are also returning to work. An estimated 103,000 persons were furloughed with the hardest hit being the railroad and mining industries.

Thousands of coal miners returned to work in U.S. Steel Corp. mines near Uniontown, Pa. Railroaders too summoned back hundreds of crews.

The industry lost an estimated 10 million tons of production. And, though some steel supplies were plentiful when the walkout started, there are shortages in many items now.

The major steel companies are expected to announce price boosts soon. They're estimated to range from $8 to $12 a ton. Steel sold at about $130 per ton before the walkout.

Manufacturers of everything from hairpins to autos are expected to pass along at least part of the price hike to consumers.

The steelworkers, who lost an estimated 225 million dollars in wages, averaged $2.40 hourly under their old contract. The new contract gives them an hourly package increase variously estimated at from 45 to 55 cents over the three-year contract.

The three-year pact was agreed upon by the USW and 12 major companies July 27. Long discussions over contract language held up a return-to-work.

Reds Ground Plane Sent for Diplomat Because of Balloons

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — American diplomat Christian M. Ravndal says, wryly, that the Hungarian Communists tried their best "to make a pleasant last impression on me."

Ravndal, U.S. minister to the Red satellite nation for five years, left Budapest by car yesterday after Communists authorities grounded a special U.S. military plane sent to fetch him.

The Hungarians claimed the plane would be endangered by propaganda balloons floated across the Iron Curtain by the American-sponsored Radio free Europe organization.

Ravndal is en route to become ambassador to Ecuador. The Hungarians allowed the special plane to take off after his departure by car, and it picked him up in Vienna to fly him to the port of Bremen, Germany.

American observers in Vienna said the Communist grounding of Ravndal's plane was a characteristic farewell gesture.

Charges Wife With Arson After Fire

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police charged 43-year-old Mrs. Mary E. Love with arson after she told them she had set her apartment afire so her husband "wouldn't have a house to come home to" after a quarrel. Firefighters had been called to her address to put out a blaze in a mattress that had burned and damaged a room.

The U. S. Air Force reports a shortage of close to 40,000 aircraft mechanics.

Reds Claim Vital Link

HONG KONG (AP) — The Communist North Viet Nam radio said today Ho Chi Minh's government has finished rebuilding the vital rail line linking Hanoi with Red China's Yunnan province and giving Kunming, in southern China, an outlet to the sea.

Democrat Platform Chairman Has Problem Of Drafting Civil Rights Plank for '56

Editor's Note: Have moderates headed off a civil rights fight in drawing up the Democratic platform? Or is there a chance of another battle comparable to 1948? This is the first of five stories on what's ahead in both the Democratic and Republican conventions.

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
Democrats both north and south of the Mason-Dixon line are pinning their hopes on tall, scholarly John William McCormack to stem a torrent of angry words at next week's convention and come up with an acceptable civil rights plank for their party's 1956 National Convention.

Rounding out his 30th year as a member of the House from Boston—12 of those years as Democratic floor leader—McCormack has a record that justifies those hopes.

He was chairman of the Democratic Platform Committee in both 1944 and 1952 when the traditionally explosive race issue was settled without party-splitting fights. But he did not wield the committee gavel at Philadelphia in 1948 when some Southern delegations walked out of the convention to set up their own States Rights ticket.

Now, cast again in the chairman's role, McCormack has only a bland smile for those who wonder how he can repeat his 1944 and 1952 accomplishments—which antedated the Supreme Court's anti-segregation decisions and the Southern manifestos.

"As chairman," he says, "I cannot comment at this time on any matters that will be before the Platform Committee."

But two men poles apart in their thinking on the issue of civil rights—which for practical political purposes boil down to the simple question of whether to give Negroes more "rights" than they now have—offer a solution:

Simply redraft the 1952 plank, say Sens. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Spessard Holland of Florida. So does former President Harry Truman.

The 1952 plank began with these words: "The Democratic party is committed to support and advance the individual rights and liberties of all Americans.

"Our country is founded on the proposition that all men are created equal. This means that all citizens are equal before the law and should enjoy equal political rights. They should have equal opportunities for education, for economic advancement and for decent living conditions.

"We will continue our efforts to eradicate discrimination based on race, religion or national origin."

Holland takes the practical Southern view of the platform. He says: "We don't like the provisions of the 1952 platform. We won't all vote for them. But they are platitudes and not too specific and should avoid a convention floor fight."

Humphrey, a key figure in the 1948 fight that led to the Dixie walkout, advanced the same compromise suggestion in these words: "All regional divisions of our party must remain united this time. There always has been plenty of room in the Democratic party for differences of opinion."

"But we cannot afford an emotional clash between the North and the South when there are many more important issues in this campaign."

Holland and Humphrey agreed that the selection of McCormack, Democratic leader of the House, as chairman of the Platform Committee again this time "is a wise one."

Humphrey said McCormack will find a fair solution to the civil rights problems if one is possible.

"There must be no retreat from the positions the party took four years ago on civil rights," Humphrey added.

Ready to fight for this much—if not more, is Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York. He had the support of Sens. Douglas (Ill.) and Hennings (Mo.) in the last days of the recent Congress in a futile effort to bring up a House-passed civil rights bill.

But there is no advance indication of how much strength they can muster in Chicago next week.

Sens. Eastland (Miss), Russell (Ga.) and other Dixie legislators are keeping mum on their convention strategy.

Long active in the protection of states' rights and in opposition to expansive proposals of Northern Democrats, they are holding their fire to await developments.

Strom Thurmond, who was the States Rights presidential candidate in 1948 and who is seeking re-election to the U.S. Senate from South Carolina, has urged Southerners to maintain threats of a third party or convention bolt for bargaining purposes.

Thurmond said he would ask the convention to reject the civil rights program, substitute for it a states rights plank and refrain from expressing any approval of the Supreme Court desegregation decisions.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and his fellow Texan, House Speaker Rayburn, who will preside again at the convention, have been urging cool heads for all shades of party opinion.

Truman, who stirred the wrath of some Southerners while in the White House, has suggested all along that the 1952 platform can serve as a model again this year.

Truman has said of the 1952 civil rights plank:

"It covers the thing completely. If the platform of the Democratic party is carried out, it would solve it."

The four-year old plank avoided such terms as "anti-lynching, poll tax repeal or fair employment practices." Often they have caused long and bitter debate.

Instead, it urged federal legislation to assure: "1. The right to equal opportunity for employment; 2. The right to security for persons; 3. The right to full and equal participation in the nation's political life, free from arbitrary restraints."

In the 1952 election, President Eisenhower carried four normally Democratic states into the Republican column—Florida, Tennessee, Virginia and Texas.

The Republican civil rights plank that year opened with these words:

"We condemn bigots who inject class, racial and religious prejudice into public and political matters. Bigotry is un-American and a danger to the Republic."

"We deplore the duplicity and insincerity of the party in power—the Democrats—in racial and religious matters. Although they have been in office as a majority party for many years, they have not kept nor do they intend to keep their promises."

Red China Ends Ban on Newsmen On Mainland

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China today ended a seven-year ban on American newsmen visiting the Chinese mainland.

The Peiping correspondent of the French news agency AFP reported to his Hong Kong office that visas had been authorized for 15 correspondents of American news agencies, newspapers, radio and television companies.

Peiping cabled five Americans in Hong Kong they could pick up visas good for one month at the Red China Embassy in Moscow or at Suncheon, across the border from Hong Kong.

Those notified in Hong Kong were John Roderick of The Associated Press, Gordon Walker of the Christian Science Monitor, Robert Martin of U.S. News and World Report, James Robinson of the National Broadcasting Co. and Dan Kurzman of McGraw-Hill Publishing Co.

No American correspondents have been permitted in China since the 1949 conquest by the Communists. The Red regime has permitted extensive visits by correspondents from most other countries.

Correspondents here believed the relaxing of Peiping's ban was connected with the meeting in Peiping Sept. 15 of the eighth Congress of the Chinese Communist party. The Communists say the Congress will be an important meeting.
